Premiere
 This is an artist's painting of the 44-foot touring Mission: Earth Geodome which will debut at Florida Camp Meeting. Full story on page 2.

El Campesre Hispano tendrá lugar en la Academia de Forest Lake en Apopka del 6 al 10 de junio. Vea más información sobre la programación, el lema y los invitados en la página 5.

An upcoming issue of Southern Tidings will contain a report on the south Florida evangelistic series held March 24–April 28. As of April 14, there had been 347 baptisms and 171 scheduled for April 21. Hundreds more people continue their studies for baptism.

THE FACE OF CUSTOMER CARE MINISTRY

Ranger Ray Queen is so excited to serve guests at Pine Lake Retreat that he glows! “My blood gets pumping when people start driving into the camp. I love it.”

Ray Queen surfaced as a “story” during the Communication Directors’ and Team training workshop at Pine Lake Retreat in Groveland in January.

“Saturday night I faced a challenge and was perplexed how to remedy it in the rural environment until Ray came along,” said Cindy Kurtzhals, Conference communication director. “I asked if he could help—and he did. He happily went the extra mile. As we talked, I sensed that he had the gift of hospitality. He was so happy and excited to assist. What a servant spirit!”

“I consider myself a full-time deacon who takes care of the people in God’s Church,” says Queen. “I served for years as a deacon in the Ft. Pierce church as God prepared me for my job here. It’s in the same spirit—making people comfortable and happy.”

While attending a Conference Boot Camp for Evangelism at Pine Lake, Queen was impressed by the staff’s friendliness. “I told then Manager Tom Hall how much I appreciated the hospitality, how well the staff took care of the people, and how happy they were. Tom shared that the Lord had been speaking to him about me ... to bring me into this ministry. It was a divine appointment for Jannette, my wife, and me.”

“To be called into camp ministry, one must have the spiritual gift of hospitality,” says Phil Younts, Conference administrative director of camp ministries. “There are many people who feel anyone can work at camp, but only those who have the gift or are willing to develop it will stay in camp ministry. Ray Queen has that gift and is called into the ministry of serving others.”

FROM THE EDITOR

W'e've received so many good responses from the last Florida Focus which featured the evangelism department. I'll admit, when I saw the photos of the evangelism team, I was impressed. It was powerful to see all those "warriors for God."

Each departmental director and support staff throughout the Conference office is focused on evangelism. That's why we're here—to serve as resources for and with you who spread the gospel to Florida's 15 million residents.

MEMBERSHIP UPDATE

There are 47,307 members in Florida Conference, the third largest in the North American Division, following the South-eastern and Southern California Conferences with 61,791 and 49,520 members respectively.

CAMP MEETING 2001 FEATURES GEODOME DEBUT

The Mission: Earth Geodome will premiere at Florida's Camp Meeting. The full story is below.

Inserts have been placed in your church bulletins telling you about Camp Meeting coming up this year. Inside this Florida Focus is a removable "mini-program" of Camp Meeting. More bulletin inserts will come your way and there will be a 20-page week-long program on-campus. All of these informational items are produced for you by the communication department.

MISSION: EARTH GEODOME TO DEBUT AT FLORIDA CAMP MEETING

The Mission: Earth Geodome exhibition consists of a 44-foot portable geodesic dome filled with exhibits focusing on Adventist Mission. The exhibition will tour Adventist Camp Meetings, college and university campuses, and General Conference institutions, beginning this summer at Florida's Camp Meeting in Apopka.

Created at the request of Adventist World Radio (AWR) as part of their 30th anniversary celebration and the North American Division's Adventist Missions initiative, Mission: Earth Geodome seeks to build awareness of Adventist Missions, demonstrate the global mission outreach of AWR, and better-connect Adventists in North America with the Church's ongoing mission programs.

The dome will be staffed by young people, including recently returned student missionaries, and features specially developed interactive exhibits and activities designed to capture the hearts of a younger generation for Adventist Mission and outreach. More than 100 designers, artists, engineers, producers, writers, editors, and craftsmen have been involved in the development of the exhibition.

MAKING EVANGELISM PERSONAL

NEW INSTITUTE OF PERSONAL EVANGELISM AND DISCIPLESHIP

“The Conference administration would like to see lay Bible workers in every church,” says Richard O’Ffill, adult ministries director. A January vote of the Conference Executive Committee establishing the Institute of Personal Evangelism and Discipleship could bring this about.

The Institute will offer regional classes throughout the state. Young and older adults may take classes if their church becomes an Institute affiliate.

“We pray that this Conference-wide training of laypersons, in partnership with local churches, will provide a rich harvest of souls,” said O’Ffill.

Conference President Lewis Hendershot said that the Institute is so important for evangelism and church growth that “every level of administration will give it full support.”

Sergio Torres, associate director of young adult ministries, said,

“We hope the Institute will graduate 1,500 to 2,000 lay Bible workers within two years.”

Several churches have already asked to become Institute affiliates. At press time, Emilio De Leon, Institute coordinator for Outlining steps that led up to this series and follow-up activities illustrates how the Institute works.

- After hearing about the Institute, pastors share the program with their church boards.

Planning for personal evangelism. From left: William Lee, Conference Bible school coordinator; Evaristo González, assistant Bible school coordinator; Richard O’Ffill, Conference adult ministries director; and Yasmin Misuraca, adult ministries department secretary.

Spanish churches in Central Florida and the Gulf region, had laid plans to conduct the Institute’s first series of seminars at the Forest City Spanish church beginning April 21. He thought 100 members would participate.

- Each board votes to become an affiliate and establish an Institute Committee.
- Each Committee identifies those interested in personal evangelism and recommends them to the Institute.

- Each Committee requests the Institute area coordinator to schedule classes in a centrally located church.
- The area coordinator works with the Conference coordinator to select instructors and plan for those classes.
- The classes, including such topics as with the Discover Bible School.

- The Committee implements discipleship training for newly baptized members.

These seminars are different from those held in the past. Individuals have to sign up—not just show up—to participate.

“Through the Institute and its affiliate churches, we want to provide means for members to put their training into practice,” said Glen Altermatt, director of church growth.

“I was extremely pleased when the Florida Conference voted to establish the Institute,” said Southern Union President Malcolm Gordon.

“There is no greater need in the Church than to equip the laity to lead individuals to Christ and a knowledge of His last day message. I hope other conferences will begin similar programs.”

COORDINATOR NAMED FOR DISCOVER BIBLE SCHOOL

William Lee, a Lakeland Church layman and owner of three insurance agencies, was driving to Orlando last November. As he drove, he prayed: “Lord, do you want me to be involved in so many things? What is it you want me to do?”

A few minutes later, his cell phone rang. Richard O’Ffill, Conference adult ministries director, was on the line. He wanted Lee to coordinate the Discover Bible Schools throughout the Conference.

Lee felt that, through O’Ffill, God had “called” him to do this work, not simply volunteer. Since then, he has devoted much time helping church members give Bible studies through the Discover Bible School.

Using materials from the Bible School is one way that graduates of the new Institute of Personal Evangelism and Discipleship can put into practice what they learn, says Lee.

When a church wants to set up a program of Bible studies—whether they are conducted personally, through correspondence, or on the internet—Lee can show how Discover Bible School materials can help. For information, e-mail Lee at syty@msn.com or call (863) 686-1327.

"We wanted the Church to make its presence felt in the community in which it's located. One way we do this is by providing a much-needed service to parents during the summer days," says Sergio Torres, director of Miami Adventist Urban Ministries. "Many lives are touched. We have estimated that more than 50% of the kids who attend the camps are not Seventh-day Adventists. The Camps then become their first contact with Adventism."

Camp Ministries

FLORIDA CONFERENCE CAMP MINISTRIES MISSION STATEMENT

Florida Conference Camp Ministries' primary mission is to serve the constituents of the Florida Conference of Seventh-day Adventists with a quality and friendly camping/retreat facility, setting an atmosphere which allows the Holy Spirit to touch as many lives as possible.

Secondly, to use Camp Kulaqua as an outreach to nonmembers who can abide by the policies of the Seventh-day Adventist church and the principles of Christianity.

May all be to the honor and glory of God.

Camp ministry is a ministry of service and has truly been blessed. Last year, God used Camp Kulaqua, Pine Lake Retreat, and Stillwaters Lodge to minister to more than 60,000.

THREE CAMP FACILITIES

Camp ministries is now made up of three camp facilities:

Camp Kulaqua started in 1953/54 and is located in High Springs, northwest of Gainesville. It was built by many hands of long-time church members and families of the Florida Conference.

The story is told how the Executive Committee knelt on the banks of Hornsby Spring and asked God to impress them on whether to purchase this piece of property for $18,000.

Wayne Foster was the first camp director. People often called the camp Foster's Folly due to its dense wilderness and remote location. Yet, God blessed Foster in His plan.

Today, this facility consists of more than 670 acres and serves more than 50,000 people each year in sharing the gospel of Jesus Christ and the Seventh-day Adventist message.

From Conference department retreats to church retreats ... from summer camps to family camps ... from Pathfinder events to Camp Meetings ... from outdoor education trips to senior camps ... Camp Kulaqua can house and facilitate the needs of up to 600 people.

A. LEE BENNETT, JR.

Phil Younts, administrative director, Camp Ministries.

PINE LAKE RETREAT

Pine Lake Retreat was the former Groveland Academy and was donated to Florida Conference in 1994 by Bernie Sheffield and the Lake Benevolence Association.

Bernie and his family had a dream that this facility would educate young people to serve the Church. God continues to use this facility to fulfill those dreams and more.

Pine Lake Retreat is located on 120 acres and can facilitate department retreats, church retreats, and Pathfinder functions. It also hosts the Southern Union Outreach Leadership school which trains young people to be literature evangelists and Bible workers.

STILLWATERS LODGE

Stillwaters Lodge is the latest addition to camp ministries. It came about when a neighbor of Camp Kulaqua decided to sell 45 acres of property that controlled the end of the Camp Kulaqua spring run. The property was invaluable to obtain for the future of the camp. Along with the property came a 6,000-square-foot house that has since been turned into a group bed and breakfast. The lodge will facilitate up to 32 people and is perfect for small group ministry, church elders meetings, marriage enrichment weekends, and family reunions. The lodge atmosphere promotes group unity and focus.

STILLWATERS LODGE

in the wheel of the camp’s ministry to constituents. More than 1,400 children and families attended Camp Kulaqua’s summer camp program last year. God has given us the opportunity to bring young people into the great outdoors which He created to teach them about the Creator. Dedicated Christian counselors and staff use scripture, Christian example, and love to introduce children to Jesus Christ.

Here are excerpts from three letters of parents last year:

“All my son does is talk about Camp Kulaqua and that he cannot wait until next year. It was encouraging to hear him say during one of his calls home ‘Mom, don’t worry about me. I have met wonderful people and made good friends. God is here.’”

One parent wrote, “My son is well-known at home as a very picky eater and often complains. I was shocked when he told me the food was delicious and he had a blast!”

Another parent wrote, “My daughter has been at Camp Kulaqua for several summers now and loves it. I am sure you hear that a lot. My husband is a Lutheran pastor and we just can’t get our daughter to consider a Lutheran camp. She so loves your camp.”

Summer camp just may be one of Florida Conference’s largest evangelistic meetings each year! This year’s summer camp schedule is on page 4. Also, the schedule and additional camp information is at www.campkulaqua.com

STAFF AND THEIR MOTTO

Dave Speicher, manager of Camp Kulaqua; Rick Faber, summer camp director; Mike Hopkins, physical plant director; Joyce

Davis, Reservation Central and marketing director; Byron Voorheis, manager of Pine Lake Retreat; and Linda Owens, director of Stillwaters Lodge, determined our motto for this year: “Our Best For His Glory.” We hope that camp ministries can be of service to you and your family as we help prepare youth and adults to meet our Savior, Jesus Christ, when He comes back to take us home.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE HIGHLIGHTS

MARCH 18, 2001

ACCEPTED the 2000 Year-end Financial Report for the Conference Association, subject to audit, as presented by Randee Reynolds, Conference treasurer.

INVITED Jimmy Cardoso, for the Upper Gold region, and Minervino Labrador, for the Gulf region, to serve on the Conference Executive Committee. They replace Garnet Spence and Ken Burrill, respectively.

APPROVED the disbanding of the Miramar company.

UPDATE—LAST OPPORTUNITY FOR 100-WATT LOW POWER RADIO

The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) will be accepting Low-Power FM (LPFM) applications during a combined group filing window of opportunity for Groups 4 and 5—the last twenty states and two territories waiting to apply, including the state of Florida. This window was moved from February, as reported in the November–December, 2000, issue of Florida Focus, to June 11–15, 2001.

Licenses that are granted are limited to noncommercial and educational broadcasters using 100 watts of power and a maximum antenna height of 100 feet. However, the FCC has expanded frequency availability to include the entire 88-108 MHz FM band. The LPFM license initiative was specifically created for churches, schools, and public service organizations to better-serve their local communities. The purpose of this initiative was to enhance locally focused, community-oriented radio broadcasting that would represent those communities or under-represented groups within the community, fostering a diversity of new voices on the radio airwaves.

LPFM license applicants can not apply if they hold an attributable interest in any other broadcast station or media entity subject to FCC ownership rules. Initially, only entities located in the communities that the new station would serve will be eligible to participate in this new service.

The FCC plans to open the 10-watt LPFM opportunity in 2002, suitable for campus broadcasting, traffic safety, or traffic and parking information on large campuses.

Wade Burby, Florida Lay Electronic Media Board chairperson, will help organizations begin the process of obtaining assistance and equipment resources to apply for and build a radio station. Contact him by e-mail, wade@netpass.com; by phone, (407) 238-1145; or fax (407) 283-1186.
