_____ (Verse 31).

Paul became a great saint only after he recognized that he was a great sinner. Paul gave his life to the only One who could change him. At the time of his conversion he was on the way to Damascus to persecute the Christians there. He thought he had been doing the will of God, but soon realized that he had been doing the work of the enemy. When he was shown his error, he was willing to let God change him. He made a complete surrender of self. He was willing to let God show him the way that he should go. Like Paul, we must recognize our sinfulness and repent of our sins. When we realize that our sins broke the heart of our Saviour and caused His death upon the cross of Calvary, we will come to Him for cleansing, and his blood will make us white as snow.
